

WATERY WORLD

THE STORY OF AN UNFORTUNATE MAN...

YOUNG ADULT

This is a story about a poor individual whose life gradually improved. However, parts of his life ended up at the edge of death. His name was Oliver Smith living with his parents and his wife named Raichel. He lived in an abandoned oak shelter with no entertainment and fun. He had a job of a toothpick worker. He checked the weather forecast with a extremely old fashioned phone. It said it would be very cold judging by the amount of clouds there was.

WEATHER DISASTER

- The second Oliver stepped outside, an ear deafening noise came thrashing to his ears. The loud vibrations had hurt his ears and the particles beneath him. The last thing he saw was a humongous tsunami crashing down at him before he was drawn down to the depth of the ocean. Oliver swam and swam for his family however all he saw remaining was the shed where he and his family lived. A giant wave came thrashing and hit him to the inside of the shed. With the pressure of the water it slammed, shut the door in front of him and Oliver could not open the door. With mighty power and force he kicked it open the door. He stepped out. He could move and breath underwater. How could this be...

THE AQUARIUM TUBE

- At the aquarium they settled up a clean tube for the box jelly fishes however the tsunami smashed the building apart , and it washed away the open tube. The tube opened his mouth and arrived at the shed and swallowed the shed into his mouth. The hour after it caught the shed was when Oliver opened the door. He was the aquarium for the fish...

START OF THE SEA ADVENTURE

- Oliver had a shiver racing through his spine. Every time Oliver tried to go to sleep, a dull and frightening figure kept approaching him, shaped like a monster, ready to chomp with its bloodstained razor sharp teeth. At 3am, there was a colossal BANG as the ocean floor started to rumble and shake, the hurricane proof tube started to wobble. It took time for Oliver's eyes to adjust the darkness around him and after the eyes adjusted the darkness surrounding him, he saw a blood thirsty flesh ripper fish. It had a bulb on it. With bloody eyes and razor sharp teeth banging the tube. The tube was about to fall down to its depth. It took moment to figure out what it was and then all of a sudden, a memory shot him in the head. It was an...

THE SURROUNDINGS

- ANGLERFISH!!! Oliver pushed and pushed however everything he did to stop it, didn't make any difference. Until he thought of an intelligent plan, he knew they survive only in water so he needs fire for it to go. He sprinted to the colossally damaged kitchen, then he turned on the oven. Actually, he was astonished it still worked, then he grabbed a piece of cardboard and set on fire. Before it was about to fall, Oliver held it really close. After a few seconds, it swam away however when it backed away its tail hit the tube and it fell down. While it was falling some snarling came around the tube. It was too dull to see. There was only evil eyes in the dark ...
