Islands

There are over 2000 islands that make up the Greek nation. Around 170 of these islands are populated. If you counted every rocky outcrop, however, the number of islands would total more than 3000. Islands account for around 20% of the country's land area.

Crete is the largest of the Greek islands.

Mainland Greece

Greece is one of the most mountainous countries in Europe. In fact, there are no navigable rivers because it is so mountainous.

In Greek mythology, Mount Olympus is said to be the seat of the Gods.

Mount Olympus is the highest mountain in Greece. It measures 9754 feet high (3 kms).

According to Greek legend, when God created the world, He sifted the earth through a strainer. After giving each country good soil, he threw the stones that were left over his shoulder and created Greece.

Mainland Greece

Greece has a warm, sunny climate and enjoys more than 250 days of sunshine a year. It has a typically Mediterranean climate with hot, dry summers and mild, rainy winters. Most people consider Greece to be a summer holiday destination, although there are also popular ski resorts in the mountainous regions to the north of Athens.

26.5 million tourists visited Greece in 2015. That's more than the Greek population!

This Ancient Greek site was the birthplace of a sporting event still celebrated today. Do you know what it is?

This is Olympia, the site of the very first Olympic Games held in 776BC.

Greek Food

The most recognisable Greek food is the olive. Greek legend tells how the Greek Gods Athena and Poseidon both wanted to be guardian over the city of Athens. To decide the matter, whoever gave the city the best gift would become guardian. Athena's gift of an olive tree was thought to be more valuable than Poseidon's gift of water.

An olive wreath was presented to the winner at the Ancient Olympic Games.

Did you know that olive trees can live for hundreds of years?

Greek Dancing

Traditional dances are about expressing emotions and telling stories. The 'Kalamatiano' is a celebratory dance performed by men and women, dancing in a circle.

Greek Homes

Many Greek houses are painted white to reflect the sun. Blue and white also reflect the colours of the Greek flag- white and blue to symbolise the Greek sea and sky.

Greek Orthodox Church

Religion is an important aspect of Greek culture. Around 98% of the population are Christian Orthodox.

Ancient Greece

Traditional Greek dress is multi-layered and varies slightly between regions of Greece. For example, woollen stockings would be worn in the mountains to protect against thorny bushes. Men would wear a 'foustanella' or skirt, while women would wear colourful layers and a head scarf.
