

MISS ARSHAD

GEOGRAPHY LEAD

The subject of Geography has been a passion of mine since I have been in primary school myself. From GCSE to A-level to choosing it as a specialism during Teacher Training, to presenting my own research at postgraduate level in Paris, France. Geography has been a subject I have followed throughout my own education, to more recently where I completed my Master's Degree in Education at UCL, London. Geography or as I like to call it 'knowledge enriched in culture', exposes us to communities and individuals whose lives are quite literally a world away from our own. Learning about culture is best experienced first-hand and this is why I have travelled to over 15 countries and islands from the Atlas Mountains in Morocco, to the busy streets of Istanbul, Turkey, to the enchanting forts nestled in Muscat, Oman, to futuristic visions wrapped around the deserts of Dubai.

Each destination invites new experiences of language, customs, people, places and most importantly cuisines. Each new place creates a new memory and adds to the best collection of souvenirs... adventure! Our new Knowledge Rich Curriculum, provides us with just that! An opportunity to explore, tour and navigate through the most remarkable places on Earth.

Discovery and learning resonates most when I am delving into the two things I love most; teaching and travelling. Below are a few pictures of my time spent teaching in The Gambia, Sweden and Pakistan where each classroom mirrored our school motto 'inspiring a love of learning to last a lifetime'.
